Just For Fun

A GIRL'S JOB

Barbara and her husband are both commercial airline pilots. Barbara likes to think that by watching her, a rarity in a mostly male profession, their six-year-old son, Cory, has an opportunity to grow up free of sex-role stereotypes.

One day, Barbara overheard a friend ask Cory what he wanted to be when he grew up. "A policeman," answered Cory.

"Don't you want to be a jet pilot?" asked their friend.

"A jet pilot?" Cory said disgustedly.

"That's a girl's job!"
